Mrs. Dunn is a well-known writer, and has also been prominently connected with the Federation of Women's Clubs of Indiana.

The collection of the best of the products of the literary men of Indiana, gathered by Mrs. Dunn and placed in the State Pavilion at the World's Fair, is one of the most interesting exhibits at the Exposition. NO LIKELIHOOD OF NEW APPORTIONMENT

Democrats Do Not Fear Any Attempt to Reduce Southern Representation.

WOULD HURT REPUBLICANS.

Moreover, It Is Argued, the Next Session of Congress Will Have No Time for Any but Pressing Matters.

The Republic Bureau, 14th St. and Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, Nov. 24.—Southern Senators and Representatives now in the city do not anticipate that the Republicans will seriously attempt to cut down the Southern representation in the House at the coming session of Congress. This feeling seems also to prevail among a great many of conservative Republicans who have been approached. Little or nothing is heard that would indicate any intention to stir up the South afresh next winter.

A prominent Senator from the South, discussing the question to-day, said: "I never believed the talk was more than a campaign slogan, designed for consumption in close Northern States where the negro vote was thought to be of importance. If the Republicans in Congress should really attempt seriously to carry out the declaration beyond the possible along this line I should be the most surprised man on earth."

"The plan has no popularity among the more thoughtful and unbiased men of the Northern States, and its attempted execution would bring the Republican party a degree of unpopularity in its own stronghold, for which no loss it could inflict on the South would compensate in any way."

"At any rate, there would be no time for the carrying out of the plan of reduction at the short session of Congress. There will be too many matters seriously demanding attention—too many that of necessity must be left until the next session—to leave the pursuit of this phantom within the domain of present probabilities."

"Of course, I may be mistaken. It may be the Republicans will astonish me by an actual effort, made in Congress, to reduce the representation of the Southern States. If they do, I am free to say, I shall be very much surprised."

CLAYTON'S VIEWS.
Representative Clayton of Alabama said: "If I were a Republican I feel sure I would not think I was called on to revise the tariff; the Republicans were victorious in the appropriation bills will be passed. I stand pat, and that being the case, I cannot see why they feel called upon to change the tariff."

"So far as the coming session is concerned, I do not expect that anything but the tariff will be passed. I do not believe anything will be done about any reapportionment of the Southern States. In Congress they would undertake any reapportionment. If they have a reapportionment for the South, they will have to have it in the North and West. In Massachusetts, where there are very considerable restrictions, and in California, where the large cities would be without vote by Federal restriction, the reduction of representation would work effectively under any law that could apply to any of the Southern States."

"Then, again, a restriction of the representation of the Southern States would mean giving the approval of Congress to an elimination of the vote of the negro people, and would constitute the policy, I do not think the majority is likely to do."

"I hear talk about restoring the representation of the Southern States."

NAN PATTERSON'S DINNER IS OF THE PRISON'S FARE.

Actress on Trial Refuses Restaurant Food, and Divides Box of Candy With Fifty-Seven Women.

New York, Nov. 24.—Hundreds of baskets of food were distributed among the poor families in the lower section of the city to-day, and liberal Thanksgiving dinners were served to the needy in many quarters. At the Bowery Mission alone plans were made to serve dinner to 1,000 homeless men to-night.

Scores of similar institutions had the city's unfortunate ones for their guests. In the Tombs prison, Nan Patterson, the young woman on trial charged with the murder of Caesar Young, the wealthy hotelier, ate her dinner alone of Dublin, "I had hoped to be home for Thanksgiving," she said, "especially on account of my mother, who is very ill. But the celebration is only postponed."

A letter which Miss Patterson received from her friends to-day said: "We expected you to be home to dinner to-day. But there can be no Thanksgiving for us until you are set free."

Miss Patterson received several presents from her friends to-day. Among them was a box of candy, which she divided among the fifty-seven women prisoners in the Tombs.

Warden W. H. Hendrick of Dublin, Patterson's dinner sent to the Tombs from a restaurant, but the prisoner refused, saying: "No; I'll take prison fare."
